

AN INSIDE LOOK AT THE UNCONSCIOUS MINDS RUNNING BOTH, THE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

BY

BARRY A. GOODFIELD, PH.D., DABFM

Last week I profiled five Republicans who spoke at the convention. This week it will be the candidates for the office of president, vice president and other political figures in their conventions. They will be analyzed, and evaluated regarding their conscious and unconscious motivations based on their Goodfield Personality Types and subsequent predictable behavior.

As much as is humanly possible this evaluation will be unbiased and will strictly adhere to the observable psychological dynamics presented by the top officials in both parties.

The Democratic National Convention
Philadelphia, July 25 - 28, 2016
Part 2

Former President Bill Clinton

Clinton was born William Jefferson Blythe III. Clinton's father was a traveling salesman who died in an automobile accident three months before Clinton was born. His mother traveled to New Orleans to study nursing soon after he was born. She left Clinton in Hope with her parents, who owned and ran a small grocery store. In 1950, Bill's mother returned from nursing school and married Roger Clinton, Sr. The family moved to Hot Springs in 1950.

Although he immediately assumed use of his stepfather's surname, it was not until Clinton turned fifteen that he formally adopted the surname Clinton as a gesture toward his stepfather. Clinton says he remembers his stepfather as a gambler and an alcoholic who regularly abused his mother and half-brother, to the point where he intervened multiple times with the threat of violence to protect them.

Clinton has named two influential moments in his life that contributed to his decision to become a public figure, both occurring in 1963. One was his visit as a Boys Nation senator to the White House to meet President John F. Kennedy.

The other was watching Martin Luther King, Jr.'s 1963 I Have a Dream speech on TV, which impressed him enough that he later memorized it.

In 1968 he got a Bachelor of Science in Foreign Service (BS) degree. He won a Rhodes Scholarship to University College, Oxford where he studied Philosophy, Politics and Economics, though because he had switched programs and had left early for Yale University, he did not receive a degree there. He developed an interest in rugby union, playing at Oxford and later for the Little Rock Rugby club in Arkansas.

While at Oxford he also participated in Vietnam War protests and organized an October 1969 Moratorium to End the War in Vietnam event.

After Oxford, Clinton attended Yale Law School and earned a Juris Doctor (JD) degree in 1973. In the Yale Law Library in 1971 he met fellow law student Hillary Rodham, who was a year ahead of him. They began dating and soon were inseparable. After only about a month, Clinton postponed his plans to be a coordinator for the George McGovern campaign for the 1972 United States presidential election in order to move in with her in California. They married on October 11, 1975.

Clinton did eventually move to Texas with Rodham to take a job leading George McGovern's effort there in 1972. He spent considerable time in Dallas, at the campaign's local headquarters on Lemmon Avenue, where he had an office.

Clinton was elected Governor of Arkansas in 1979-1981 and 1983-1992. He became the youngest governor in the country at 32. Due to his youthful appearance, Clinton was often called the "Boy Governor".

The Clintons' personal and business affairs in the 1980s included transactions that became the basis of the Whitewater controversy investigation that later dogged his presidential administration. After extensive investigation over several years, no indictments were made against the Clintons related to the years in Arkansas.

Clinton won the 1992 presidential election (43.0 percent of the vote) against Republican incumbent George H. W. Bush (37.4 percent of the vote) and billionaire populist Ross Perot, who ran as an independent (18.9 percent of the vote). In the 1996 presidential election, Clinton was re-elected.

In 1998 the House impeached Clinton, the perjury charge arose from Clinton's testimony before a grand jury that had been convened to investigate perjury he may have committed in his sworn deposition during Paula Jones's sexual harassment lawsuit. The obstruction charge was based on his actions to conceal his relationship with Lewinsky before and after that deposition. The Senate later acquitted Clinton on both charges.

On January 19, 2001, Clinton's law license was suspended for five years after he acknowledged to an Arkansas circuit court that he had engaged in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice in the Jones case.

Clinton was the first president in history to appoint more women and minority judges than white male judges to the federal courts. Clinton also appointed the nation's first openly gay or lesbian federal judge.

According to a CBS News/New York Times poll, Clinton left office with an approval rating of 68 percent, which matched those of Ronald Reagan and Franklin D. Roosevelt as the highest ratings for departing presidents in the modern era.

In September 2004, Clinton received a quadruple bypass surgery. In March 2005, he underwent surgery for a partially collapsed lung. On February 11, 2010, he had two coronary stents implanted in his heart. After this experience, Clinton adopted the plant-based whole foods (vegan) diet.

Various colleges and universities have awarded Clinton honorary degrees. Clinton has been involved in public speaking and humanitarian work.

The Clinton Foundation founded in 1997 as the William J. Clinton Foundation, and called during 2013–15 the Bill, Hillary & Chelsea Clinton Foundation is a nonprofit corporation. The Foundation focuses on improving global health and wellness, increasing opportunity for women and girls, reducing childhood obesity and preventable diseases, creating economic opportunity and growth, and helping communities address the effects of climate change. The Foundation works principally through partnerships with like-minded individuals, organizations, corporations, and governments, often serving as an incubator for new policies and programs. Its offices are located in New York City and Little Rock, Arkansas.

Clinton has remained active in politics by campaigning for democratic candidates, including his wife's campaigns for the democratic presidential nomination in 2008 and 2016, and Barack Obama's presidential campaigns in 2008 and 2012.

Since leaving office, Clinton has been rated highly in public opinion polls of US Presidents.

Goodfield Personality Type 2.3 The Pouncer

I'm back!

First Impression

Dignified
Quick
Prideful
A fast judge of character
Can be hard
Ridged at times
Retribution when necessary

PERSONALITY CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POUNCER

This Goodfield Personality Type has the following characterization:

- A powerful person when it comes to facts, data and people
- A critical player in major decision-making situations
- Able to see but limited in his ability to be a full participant
- Often found at the center of policy decisions
- Often found at center of the fray when action is required
- Knows what is necessary to obtain objectives
- Watches others actions while leading the group
- A keen observer and insightful about dynamics of situations
- When the time is "right," will not hesitate to speak up
- Will notice quickly those who agree and those who don't

- Can choose to be the center of attention showing power
- Has skills and outstanding organizational abilities

COMMENTARY BASED ON PUBLIC PRESENTATIONS AND PSYCHOLOGICAL OBSERVATION

President Bill Clinton, in general is someone who is active in doing things rather than just thinking or talking about them. He is a natural leader, a dynamo influencer for those around him. His charismatic style is infectious and he inspires others with lesser sense of assuredness to follow his leadership. He engages others in actions they might never embark upon, without his sense of direction, drive and purpose.

President Clinton is powerful and fast to act, sometimes too fast for his own good. When things go wrong, he is quick to re-evaluate, and adopt new strategies to obtain his goals. President Clinton, takes pride in presenting a strong organized image of a man who has power and focus. He is bright, arrogant and knows what he wants — and does not want!

He has a sense of humor which often is expressed with irony. He has a quick wit and a silver tongue. People may not like what he says, but in most cases he knows what he is saying.

The key to President Bill Clinton is the presentation of a very clear plan of action. He respects brevity, parsimony and a high thought per word ratio.

President Bill Clinton is well focused, capable of great concentration and inspiring it in others. He radiates strength, even when it is not warranted. He, therefore, surprises others when his programs or projects are less than successful. His dedication to his tasks and this attribute can be ultimately detrimental to his lifestyle.

Bill Clinton, it could be argued, made a major difference in America during his eight years in the White House, the longest economic expansion in American history. He created 22 million new jobs resulted in the highest home ownership in American history. Unemployment dropped from 7% in 1993 to 4% in November 2000. He got the welfare role to a 30 year low , etc.

With his personality as outlined above, and his track record of successes not to mention controversies, does anyone in any way doubt that he can keep his hands out of running the United States government?

This will not be a “First Gentleman” who focuses his time on the beautification of America, or helping children to learn to read. Former President Clinton has spent his life in leadership roles. No one should fool themselves into believing for one moment that this will be anything other than a co-presidency. For some this is a bonus. It's two for the price of one! For other Americans and world leaders it will be a double disaster.

Whatever your politics his skill as a negotiator, influencer, and world figure will once again, shape or at least profoundly influence, America's direction as he did in the years before when he sat behind the big desk. One way or another he will now stand behind that chair influencing our ways and our world. Of course, his counsel will be publicly sought and his power to influence equally denied.

It is not just a first woman as President of the United States, it is Hillary Clinton with all the good and bad news that it implies. America awaits November with trepidation and bated breath.

Photo courtesy Bob McNeely, The White House and Gage Skidmore

Last week I profiled some of the Republican Candidates:

Part 1: Governor Chris Christie and Former Speak of the house Newt Gingrich <http://goo.gl/izhYks>

Part 2: Vice President candidate Mike R. Pence <http://goo.gl/5YrHa7>

Part 3: Dr. Ben Carson <http://goo.gl/krLk9n>

Part 4: Governor Ted Cruz <http://goo.gl/XURR7v>

Part 5: Donald Trump <http://goo.gl/lkHaEy>

This week the Democratic Candidates:

Part 1: Bernie Sanders <http://bit.ly/2aoGijZ>

For more articles and video's click here <http://goo.gl/jUjnt8>

Wikipedia
News outlets

©July 25, 2016 Goodfield Institute LLC